

Question for the Attorney General
August 14, 2007

Mr. Gonzales, a historical question that you have probably given thought to:

We are here in a Native American venue and I assume that at least in Cabinet meetings you have had contact with the issue of conflict between Israel and the Palestinians.

What differences and what similarities do you see between the resistance of Native Americans to the establishment and the policies of the United States, and the resistance of Palestinians to the establishment and the policies of Israel?

In particular, how would you compare the justness of the causes of Native Americans and Palestinians, and their methods of resistance?
